Mr Jackson

Dear Sir

Friend

Whittier wrote me the other day, from New York, supposing that I should go to the Albany Convention, requesting me to me to take charge of his sister, from this city to New York. As my engagement here will render it impossible for me to attend the Convention, I have written Miss Whittier, at Amesbury, accordingly, but said to her that as others were going from here, I did not doubt she would find some friend who would cheerfully see her ~~from~~ there, if she would be here, in season for the afternoon cars, on Monday next. This therefore is to inquire, whether you go to Albany at that time, & by the way of New York; & if so, whether it will be agreeable to you to take Miss W.—

under your care from this to New York? It is not certain that she will go. If she does she will be here on Monday, as stated. If you will see her safely there you will oblige me, by leaving word, at 5 Hayward Place.

Friend Whittier wished me to see that, Channing, Pierpont, & Follen were urged out to the Convention. I know not how to get at them, except through you. Will you see them, & get them here if possible?

Yours for the slave
